Dear Mark,

We recently had members of a Building Committee of another congregation tour our church building to see the building expansion we added in 2005-06. They were very impressed with the quality of the work you and your employees did in constructing our new space and tying it together with our existing building. It also gave me an opportunity to tell them about the great experience we had working with you and your people in all aspects of the building process:

- The superintendent on site made every effort to coordinate construction with the congregation's worship life and programs;
- Your employees did quality work in a timely fashion;
- Your employees expertly solved the detail problems that inevitably arise when transforming the architect's drawings into reality;
- Sub-contractors were coordinated and supervised well;
- You cooperated in allowing volunteers from the congregation do some aspects of the project which saved us quite a bit of money;
- When it became apparent that the project was going to be completed under budget (how often does that happen!), we were able to restore some of the detail work that we had cut from the project;
- The project was completed on schedule so we could keep the date we had scheduled for the dedication of the building.

Please feel free to encourage other congregations who are considering engaging you as Contractor for a building project to contact me, as I would be happy to serve as a reference for you and your company.

Peace!
